Britain In Error -Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Eisenhower said Wednesday night the decision by Israel, Britain and France to send troops into Egypt was "taken in error."

But he added in a country-wide radio and television address the decision had resulted from "grave and repeated provocations."

In the address, beamed around the world by the radio voice of America, the president pledged that the United States will not involve its armed forces in the dispute. Shortly before the president spoke, Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, announced that he had telegraphed Eisenhower expressing the hope "that you will not commit us to precipitate military action."

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told reporters the president had not received stevenson's wire when he went on the air.

CANBERRA (Reuters)—Prime Minister Robert Menzies told Parliament tonight that Australia supports the Anglo-French action in the Middle East dispute.

Menzies said Britain had not consulted with other Commonwealth countries before taking joint action with France, but the British government was not at fault in this because the circumstances were those of great emergency.

No Time for Panic

IN THE ALMOST UNBELIEVthe first thing for the Canadian people to realize is that they possess, so far, only a small part of the essential facts.

At the moment it is impossible to lge either the rights and wrongs of the situation around Suez or the ultimate results of the British-French policy of intervention. Facing the gravest crisis since the Second World war—a crisis which already has strained the Western alliance and the Commonwealth itself — Canadians should suspend final judgment until they know the facts.

All we know is that, on the one hand, the British and French Governments have taken incalculable risks to defend the world's peace and what they consider their most vital interests, as they have every right to do; and, on the other, that the United States, backed by many other nations, regards the attack on the Canal zone as unsound in morals and unwise in strategy. But as Sir Pierson Dixon, the British representative at the United Nations, said yesterday, Britain and France have information which cannot be revealed at present and which, when published, will fully justify their use of force.

If it is premature to judge the policy of Britain and France now, it also futile, we think, to lament the mistakes, on both sides, that led up to the crisis. Any politician, in any nation, who tries to exploit this emergency—nothing less than the peace of the world—for partisan purposes, as Mr. Stevenson seems to be doing, is acting with dangerous irresponsibility. The only thing that concerns us now is the best method of ending the threat to peace.

Britain and France have adopted the method of direct, armed intervention not only to protect their vital interests but, as they think, to stamp out a flame which could produce a general conflagraion.

The United States regards this method as an error and proposes, over British and French objections, to force the Suez issue immediately into the United Nations Assembly where there is no veto, where every nation must stand up and be counted and where the opinion of mankind can be mobilized. The Assembly debate, beginning today, should tell us much more than we know now. It is unlikely, ever, to tell us everything. Britain and France, in the middle of a dangerous military operation, cannot be expected to disclose their strategy to their enemies.

Meanwhile, from this distance, it would appear that the wisdom or error of the British-French policy must quickly reveal itself. As Sir Anthony Eden says, timing is the sovereign element in this policy. The Suez occupation, he tells his people is intended to be local, restricted and temporary, to stop the war between and Egypt and the possible a permanent settlement of the Canal question itself and the problems of the Middle East in general.

If these objectives can be achieved quickly, the policy, for the moment at least, will be proved sound, though its long-run results, of course, canbe calculated. On the other hand, if intervention fails to bring peace in Suez, if it produces, instead, a major war involving the great powers and disrupting the Western alliance then it will be proved a failure and a disaster beyond exaggeration.

This possibility accounts for the policy of the American Government. It refuses to support its British and French allies and insists that a settlement shall be sought, not by force, but through the channels of the United Nations. This possibility also explains the explosion of anger gainst the Eden Government in Britain, where the Labor Party, representing something like half the people, declares that Britain is violating the United Nations Charter, shaking the Anglo-American alliance and dividing the Commonwealth.

The only sure thing about such a that it cannot continue British-French intervention must soon succeed or fail in its im-mediate objectives. Beyond them, the enduring effects on the Western alliance, the Commonwealth and especially the relations between the West and the non-white world cannot possibly be foreseen. Undoubtedly they will be profound. As events from eastern Europe to the Middle East are showing, the whole world is crossing today one of the great watersheds of history and no man can foresee the terrain wheat

As these events move at breakneck speed the Canadian Government and people must be prepared to play their own part in them.

Everyone who knows the history of Canada and understands its middle position between Britain and the United States must realize that the eruption in Suez confronts us at once, and in the most acute form, with our historic dilemma.

The supreme objective of Canadian policy, under any government, is to maintain our friendship with the two great powers whose disagreemust always tend to divide the Canadian people. Apart from our over-riding interest in world peace, we have a very special interest in a crisis which already has produced such a disagreement.

Under these conditions no responsible Canadian Government will act precipitately to embarrass either of its great friends. Mr. St. Laurent's restraint is wise at the moment but the time is coming, and soon, when his Government must take a clear

Its representative in the United Nations Assembly apparently must vote for or against an American resolution which Britain and France vetoed in the Security Council, which they will oppose in the Assembly and which they regard as an unfair condemnation of their intervention in Suez. Hence within the larger world crisis the Canadian Government faces a crisis of its own

While the Government has made no announcement, and undoubtedly is hoping that events will quickly crisis, its general attitude has been indicated by Mr. Pearson. believes that the quarrel between Israel and Egypt could have been better settled in the United Nations than by armed intervention.

This has always been the general view of the present and preceding governments. Our foreign policy, with public consent, has always been based on the United Nations, as for example, in the case of the Korean war, a United Nations war against an aggressor. It does not follow, because the United Nations has been temporarily by-passed in Suez, that it has been paralyzed. Nor does it follow that Britain and France, though unwilling to wait for the United Nations to act in an immediate emergency, wish to undermine or flout it.

On the contrary, if they succeed in enforcing a truce at Suez, Britain and France will welcome a perma-nent settlement devised by the United Nations and based on justice to all: Sir Anthony. Eden made this perfectly clear today.

The clear duty of the Canadian Government, therefore, is to work from its unique middle position for the reconciliation of its British and American friends and to support the United Nations which, at some point not far off, must grapple with the results of the British-French intervention, whatever they may be.

As these unprecedented events unfold it is no time for hysteria in this country, for hasty conclusions or for partisan poiltics. It is a time for sober reason—a characteristic of the Canadian people—especially when they do not know, and cannot know, all the facts.

New Role for Game Wardens

MR. ERNEST P. EDWARDS, U.S. biologist and conservationist, has left a suggestion here which should attract official attention.

Speaking under the auspices of the Victoria Natural History Society and Audubon group, he proposed that wardens be engaged on a basis of their training and interest in wildlife welfare and conservation.

It is not enough, he says, for wardens to act only as policemen catching people who break the law.

This is a point understood in the provincial game branch though not covered in the game act. At present biologists are employed to study cer-tain features of wildlife and to make suggestions along conservation lines.

But as far as the public is concerned, the game warden is a per-son clothed with a little brief authority who can make it awkward for the man who hasn't a fishing licence or who has broken major or minor regulations.

What is needed is an approved program which gives game branches the opportunity to do more constructive conservation work—to study and apply principles of game manageand to make the welfare of game, fish, bird and animal, their responsibility.

Given such scope, men with ade quate education and training could win public respect denied wardens when they are only the people who make the "pinches."

For Philosophers Only

like inflation, economics or the perils of society will raise its ugly head in this immaculate department, which is strictly devoted to higher things. Nor have we any concern here with the dreary, minutiae of politics and the temporary fortunes of governments. But the public mind, as it reacts to these little pin pricks, is a legitimate field of speculation in the mind of a philosopher—like the present reader, for example.

The public mind at the moment de serves not only speculation but sympathy. It is twisted and torn from all sides by conflicting information.

T IS warned by Mr. Harris, for example, I that the country is beset by inflation. It is assured by Mr. Bennett that it faces a deflation under a national Government cold-bloodedly determined to create mass election next June. It is advised by Mr. Diefenbaker that it is going to hell in a hack and by Mr. Howe that it is moving in the opposite direction in a Cadillac

Now, all this is quite normal; quite ormal, I mean, for a democratic society to be split, doubtful and furious. Democracy thrives on division and is likely to be mortally ill if it agrees about every-

THE alarming thing about Canadian democracy at the moment is not that it appears divided but that it is not divided and furious enough. The political process (if I may intrude that dreadful phrase for just a moment) is suffering not only from apathy but almost from atrophy. consciousness in great affairs threatens to become public

The problem of inflation (which will not be discussed here) might interest eco-nomists and other dull fellows as an economic problem. It must interest the philosopher like you as a philosophical problem, a problem of the public mind. So considered, it is indeed fascinating. as worthy of our consideration as a television show or the peculiar pectoral endowments of Miss You Know Whom.

THE thoughtless person may say that inflation is an old, shop-worn phesense it is. But in a philosophic sense as a phenomenon of the public mind, it is brand new with us in this generation. We are the first generation that knows anything about inflation.

To be sure the economists of Rome ew about inflation and used it to wreck their empire. The debates of the French Assembly in the great revolution, which I have been reading lately for relaxation and harmless humor, were full of the very theories of easy money which the better modern statesmen like Mr. Bennett are repeating now under the impression that they have discovered something new.

NEVERTHELESS, this is the first generation in which the general public has begun to grasp — as yet vaguely the economic process by which, socia-lives and can die.

The world was governed for some five thousand, years by dictatorial governments that regulated everything, including prices, wages and the private life of every household whether the public liked it or not. Only in the last twenty years or so, since the late Lord Keynes re-placed Karl Marx as the most decisive figure in world affairs, has a democratic government, in a system called free en-terprise, seriously attempted to manage money, the central engine of that system,

THERE is the thing that must interest the philosopher - the fact that the new attempt to save society from its familiar cycle of boom and bust now depends for the first time, not on the goverriment but on the people.

Government may enforce monetary policies sound or unsound (and I shall not insult the reader's intellige debating the contrary views of Mr. Har-ris and Mr. Bennett) but now-a-days no sound policy can possibly work without the support of a large public majority.

An unsound policy, a policy of per-petual inflation, can work secretly, the drug being inserted invisibly, drop by drop in the economic bloodstream when nobody is looking,

THE opposite policy of restraining inflation can work only if the public knows about it, understands its purpose and supports it.

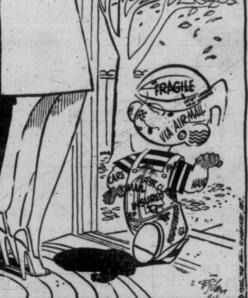

Government is not prepared to regulate everything and couldn't, under our existing constitution, if it wanted to, and therefore must depend on the public's good sense, its restraint in the demand for non-existent goods, its ability to see that the concentrations that the economic system can physically produce so much and no more however much money it creates and spends.

These facts are obvious to a philosopher like the present reader. They are not obvious to everybody. They certainly are not obvious to a highly intelligent gentleman like Mr. Bennett.

HENCE the unique philosophic problem of our time-a generation which has managed to create a unique state of wealth but has yet to learn how it works or how it may fail to work, which has achieved prosperity but may not be able

Economics are only the outward symptoms of this problem money the symbols and bookkeeping entries. The real question posed by inflation does not reside in the Bank of Canada or even in the Government of British Co-It resides, gentle reader, in lumbia your skull

Instead of eyen thinking of further taxes for the unfortunate people who have to pay exorbitant rents for very mediocre rooms and apartments, is it not time municipal blocks of apartments were built at rents within reach of the lower income group of people? Too many of them are having a hand to mouth existence.

I would also like to know why rent books are not used, showing what part of any rent is used for taxes and water rate—also giving information on how to contact the health department sanitary inspector, etc.

Wages and Prices

Recent figures from Ottawa show the Cost of Living Index, as at Aug. 1, 1956 stood at 119.1 per cent of the 1949 level proving a 20 per cent increase in the average cost of food, shelter, clothing, fuel, furniture and a host of other commodities and services during the past seven years. In other words it takes $120 now to buy what $100 did in 1949.

But, when it comes to inflation, let's take a look at wages and salaries in-crease during the same time. Here we'll find the rise kinded disproportionate. Ottawa figures show that on June first 1956 the average hourly wage to those in manufacturing was better than $1.51 compared to just over 98 cents in 1949. being in fact an increase on the average of 53 per cent as against the increase of only 20 per cent in living costs.

The story doesn't end there, however. While the average wage went up from $41.71 to $62.24 per week the work-time was reduced by about 11/2 hours per week. Add to this the sweeping gains made in "fringe" benefits and it will

Her criticism of their not being understood by Canadians in the audience was stupid. When Canadian entertainers go to the British Isles, do they change their way of speaking? No, and if they are good in their profession it makes no difference at all.

I suggest you waste no more passes to the Scots Concerts on your present music critic. Send some one who will appreciate a "Night with the Scots."

Mr. Dulles Guessed Wrong

AS THIS is written, it is not yet clear whether Israel's invasion of Egypt will lead to a full-scale war in the Middle East, which could become a much bigger war. What is crystal clear is that Amerian policy in the Middle Eastern crisis has been a dismal and desperate failure. It has been a failure because it has been based on a simple miscalculation. Secretary of State viously concluded, after Abdel Nasser seized the Suez Canal Com-

Egypt's Colonel Gamal Abdel Nasser seized pany, that including a that anything. Joseph triumph, for the violently anti-Western Colonel Nasser would be better than a shooting war in the Middle East, He further reasoned that war co prevented if only the British and French could be held back from using force against Egypt. He therefore bent all his efforts to that end. But in so doing, he overlooked another and vital element in the equation.

For Nasser is, of course, even more violently anti-Israel than he is anti-Western. He has never made any bones about the fact that his ambition is, first, to become the leader of a re-armed Arab bloc, and then, at the propitious moment, to destroy Israel.

Preventive Action

Even before the Suez Canal crisis, nd after the Soviet arms deal with Egypt, the "activist" group in Israel most seriously considered "preventive action" against the Nasser regime. Israel's Prime Minister David Ben Gurion's government was only dissuaded from taking such action by strong pressure from the American Government, the from the American Government, the promise of an American loan, and the persuasions of then Foreign Minister Moshe Sharrett and Israel's Ambassador to Washington Abba Eban.

But Nasser's seizure of the canal again basically altered the situation in Israeli eyes. For Nasser's action was a direct and open challenge to the great powers of the West. If Nasser were permitted to get away with his challenge, the Israeli reasoned, then nothing could stop him from achieving his stated ambition

Nov. 1, 1936: The coord annual Winter air organized by the courist Trade Develourist ser's seizure of the canal, we wrote that "The Israeli count Nasser their most formidable enemy. may then take 'preventive action' which could spark a Middle Eastern or even general war," Yet this clear danger was generally disregarded in Dulles' State Department. Instead, Secretary Dulles devoted all his very considerable powers of persuasion and manoeuvre to preventing the British and French from taking forceful action It was a brilliant operation in its way. The British and French, especially the British, desperately wanted American support in any move to cut Nasser down to size. Nor were they eager for blood-In this situation, Dulles adopted a series of delaying actions, seeming to promise effective American support for strong action, and then drawing back.

Thus, the British and French were repeatedly puffed back, when they had almost reached the decision to use force or the threat of force against Nasser. From the beginning force or the threat of force constituted the only effective sanction in negotiating with the Egyp-was in this situation that Ben Gurion, no doubt with an eye on the American elections, and quite possibly with some secret encouragement from the French and the British, decided to strike. Late last week, hard intellige sion was obtained by the intelligence ser-vices, and conveyed to Dulles and the State Department, where it caused consternation. A summary of the report was hastily con-veyed to President Eisenhower at Walter Reed Hospital, and he issued his statement warning the Israeli against aggression. Strong pressure was also brought on Ben Gurion on the spot, but to no avail.

Thus the shooting in the Middle East which Dulles manoeuvred so hard to avoid has started. It has started, more-over, under the worst conceivable con-Thanks to the Dulles delaying tactics, there has never been a time since the war when this country's relations with its two major allies, Britain and France, were nearer the breaking point. Skin Eruptions Due to Drugs

Every intelligent layman should know that when his skin breaks out badly he must stop and think, "Have I recently started taking some drug, or have I been taking tone drug in fairly large doses or for a long time? When a rash comes a person should immediately stop taking all drugs to see if. with this, the skin clears up.

I remember a man who used to go into a terrible chill, run a high fever, and have severe pains in the bones of his legs. Several able of his legs. Several able doctors studied him care fully and couldn't guess the trouble When I saw him, my hunch was that it was a reaction due to the taking of some drug, but the man main-tained that he wasn't tak-ing any medicine. When I was about stumped, I noted that, with some of his Dr. Alvares spells, he would get a breaking-out of his skin. I took him to an able skin specialist and said, "Do you know what these funny red circles are?" He said, "Yes, they are due to taking phenolphthalein." For years, this has been the commonest laxative used in patent preparations. Then the man admitted that he had been taking some "laxative cookies" which, according to the label, did not contain any dangerous drugs. When he stopped taking the cookies that was the end his eruption I'll never forget the woman who, once a month at her menstrual time, would go into a tremendous chill; her temperature would shoot up to 105 degrees, and for a while she would be miserable. For years no one had been able to find the cause. A little study showed that this was due to the taking of a certain often-toxic drug for her menstrual pain. During the flare-up due to the drug, oman's white blood count dropped spec tacularly — which helped me greatly in making the diagnosis. When she stopped taking the medicine, that was the end of the

that, with our change-over from a rural to an urban population, there are more and more Canadian children to whom the ways of farm life are totally unfamiliar.

I know only too well the work and chores and rigid schedule that go with farming. But I'm stubborn enough to think that farm life is very good for children.

To my mind, it makes them realize the nportance of the land. (Even if they long to leave it!)

They can see for themselves the discip-line that must be practiced by those who work upon the land. They can see that when hay or grain is ready to cut, it must be cut and social invitations cannot come ahead of work. If they do, then hay is spoiled. And, if there's no hay in the barn, then there won't be milk or meat in winter. (Anybody knows what hay costs a ton? Or how many tons a cow eats in the winter?)

LEG PAIN ON WALKING

An intelligent man of 55 writes saying that in short brisk walks his left leg gets to paining so much that he has to stop and take a short rest. After this, he can walk on again for some yards, and then the pain comes again. He says this trouble started a year ago. The ache or pain comes in the ankle or the call of the leg. Recently, the toes of both feet tingle all the time, and sometimes he gets a burning sensation in his

When a man is quiet, enough blood gets through to supply the needs of the leg. but when he exercises, the leg needs much more blood—more than the artery can supply.

Then comes the pain.

Unfortunately, medicine will not always relieve this condition. In some cases, the patient can be helped by an operation called a sympathectomy, in which certain nerves are cut back of the upper part of the abdomen. In the worst cases, an expert on artery diseases, by injecting some radio-opaque material into the artery and x-raying it, can find just where the narrow place is. Then a surgeon may cut out this place, and transplant a segment of artery with a bore large enough to carry all the blood that is needed.

CHILDREN WHO GET POISONED

Every year in our country more than 200,-000 persons have to be rushed to hospital be cause of poisoning, and many of them are children. Sometimes the doctor cannot give an antidote because he does not know what sort of poison was swallowed.

One of the worst things people do is to keep poison around the house, and another is to keep it in an unmarked glass or cup. If I ever have to buy poison or lye for some purpose, I will not keep the unused remainder; I will throw it out. All parents of children should do this. But if they feel they must keep poisons around, at least they should keep bathroom, but a separate one. Only safe medicinal drugs should be kept in the medicine cabinet. Why? So that when someone gets up in the night and swallows some medicine without turning on the light, and makes a mistake, it will not be a fatal one. He may not take the sleeping tablet he wanted. he won't get anything worse than aspirin or an antihistaminic!

A Warning about Foreign Attachments to Telephones

Telephone subscribers are reminded that the use of telephone attachments unauthorized by the Telephone Company is contrary to regulations governing telephone service. This is pointed out because from time to time certain devices of this kind appear on the market and are offered for sale or for rent to telephone users.

The regulation applying to "non-approved devices" follows:

The subscribers shall not use or permit to be used any electrical or mechanical apparatus or device in connection with the equipment or facilities furnished by the Com-pany without the written consent of the Company, or permit the attachment of advertising devices thereto. apparatus or devices of any kind other than those furnished or approved by the Company are attached to or connected with any part of the Company's property, the Company may remove such apparatus or devices or terminate the service.

This regulation is, of course, in the interests of good telephone service and, therefore, for the protection of telephone subscribers generally. Some attachments to telephones can impair service. And interference with service on one telephone does not stop with that instrument. Others are bound to be affected.

That's why telephone regulations prohibit telephone attachments without the written consent of the Telephone Company.

SOCCER SLATE HEAVY: FOUR WEEKEND GAMES

Brodies Bakery and Canadian Scottish will clash in a first round McGavin Cup match at Royal Athletic Park in the only Victoria and District Football League action scheduled Saturday.

In league games Sunday, Punjab United will have a chance to move into first place. United, one point back of pace-setting Gorge Hotel, meets the Hotelmen at Central Park.

Which brings us to the serious part of this piece. The question is, as it has been in the past, "What's wrong with the Cougars?"

Why is an ostensibly fast, hard-skating team like this ing games by one goal and making mistakes upon which

Since that day, which seems so long ago, when the Cougars opened their season with a resounding 5-2 victory over the Vancouver Canucks, the Cats' luck has turned to sour apples. They have won only one game since that time, a 1-0 victory over the Calgary Stampeders, the less said about which the

They have lost five games by the margin of one goal. They have lost badly only once, a 50 belaboring in Brandon. They have lost two games in overtime and battled to a draw in an extra period. They have only one point out of a possible 12 on the road.

As a team, they appear to be hustling and trying and you can't keep explaining losses with that "puck not bouncing for

The Cougars are not scoring goals. In 10 games, they have scored only 25 times, an average of 2½ goals per game, not good enough, to win consistently in this league even with a goalie like Marcel Pelletier, who has been the club's only nsistently good player all along the line.

Goal Averages Tell Story

The 2.5 goals per game average marks the Cougars as the weakest scoring club in either division. The figure is in direct contrast to the close to 4.5 goals per game average whomped up by the Seattle Americans and it's no fluke that the Americans are in first place. Okay, then, let's look at the team, starting with the Bill Davidson always has been my idea of a consistently fine hockey player; steady and underrated.

But this season so far, Bill has been below par and I expected him to better his own standards since he now is carrying that big "C" given to the player who is charged with leading the team as captain. Davidson can do more for the club than he has done thus far.

Nelson Bulloch can't make those rushes from the blueline because he is 10 pounds overweight. The excess such is dragging on his speed and he will not be able to police his area until he starts shedding.

He has been given two weeks by coach Colin Kilburn to get down to playing weight and his alternative is not a happy one. A conscientious player, Bulloch is working hard at pract at Wednesday's workout. But when a guy is overweight, five pounds lost in practice can be regained by the same night. Bulloch will step on the scales before the Nov. 10 game in Seattle to see if he has won his battle

All it would take, it seems to me, is for three or four players to quit playing token hockey and start giving the team that little bit of extra effort that bridges the narrow gap between a winner and a loser, those one-goal losses being evidence that can't be alibied away.

"If we can take this two-game series with the Royals Friday and Saturday, if might be the spark we need and we could stretch it into four or five wins. That's what we really need—a couple of wins, back to back."

What the hobgoblins did was far, far worse—so bad, in fact, I hesitate to tell you about it. But I will, so don't go away.

As things worked out on Halloween, it was impossible for My Favorite Wife and I to get home until about 9.30.

There was the matter of a reception for some minor CPR official or other—the president, or some such—which entailed the consumption of hot little pig sausages on tooth picks, washed down with sarsaparilla and leavened with conversation with such types as heads of universities and famous editors, and so one sales. ous editors, and so on,

This was followed by dinner with some very charming friends sparkled by talk about people we knew 'way back when, and ending with one of the charming friends pick-

After this, we watched the goon boys and the goon girls having wholesome fun on Yates Street.

All very entertaining, you might say.

But throughout it all, something troubled me severely,
I had not yet read the afternoon paper.

While conversing with railway officials and university heads and famous editors and charming friends, a part of my mind was looking forward to getting home, taking off my shoes, and reading the paper. Or even reading the paper without taking off my shoes.

So, when finally we got home, I gave a cursory glance around the place, and found the hobgoblins had left the garbage pail and the woodpile and the garage doors intact.

And then I went to the little box where our carrier

Halloween Hoodlums Defied Frustrated Policemen

By PETE LOUDON

The police commission stepped lightly. One week ago the commission in a body told this reporter rowdyism and indiscriminate throwing of fireworks in the downtown area this Halloween "will be stepped upon."

Mayor Percy. Scurrah, a week earlier, said in interview the police commission; of which he is chairman, had special plans for Halloween, which he couldn't divulge. Things were to be different,

They were different. It was the first Halloween that

It was the first time a policeman was hit with raw eggs or members of the Corps of Commissionaires threatened with raised fists when they said "Move along."

It was probably the most arrogant, defiant mob of hoodlums ever to roister through the downtown streets. They set wastepaper bins on fire, of course. That opens every year. And bounced a car to the sidewalk.

No one found the gang which dumped the gas on a parking lot on View Street, alongside a parked car, and ignited it. It burned itself out without damage. Another bucket was dumped on the road where cars were passing. Police arrived before it could be lit.

But this didn't stop another group from lighting bombs to toss into the gas. Interrupted they professed no knowledge of the gas, but tendered the advice:

"If your nerves are bad, stay home."

Why were the hands of the police tied?

Victoria city council and police commission had the example of last year to look back on. Cars were bounced to the sidewalk then too, and the bomb menace just as severe. They have balked at the obvious solution. Enforce the law. Or, adopt the solution most policemen favor—stop the manufacture and sale of fireworks.

When that is done there will be no excuse for the parade of juvenile thugs that marched around and around the business section Wednesday night, daring the police to touch them.

WHY, OH WHY?-Things we wonder about in the ile of the night:

1320 BROAD ST. 2-8148 412 West Hastings St., Vancouver

Where are the Quiz Kids? In school, no doubt, but Why did they bill Gypsy Rose Lee as the star of Steel Hour's "Sauce For the Goose," when she wasn't? Why does Almanac have to be so colorless?

Why are so many "spectaculars" so unspectacular? Did Vincent Price do "the sporting thing" on "The $64.000 Challenge" Sunday night by allowing Edward G. Robinson to split the boodle? It appeared as though Price knew a whale of a lot about fig leaves for a man

Why does Saturday night's Famous Film Festival ed a host? Donald Woods is a nice chap, but what's doing cutting in and out of the movie like a hook If certain explanations and summarizations needed surely an unseen narrator could do them. This way it's breaking up the continuity.

Why did Mary Martin want to play the lead in Garson Kanin's comedy "Born Yesterday?" She must have known that she isn't the Billy Dawn type. Therefore she suffered in comparison to Judy Holliday who is the type, and, because of it, won the 1946 Academy Award.

Why do they insist on billing stars of today in the late movies which were made in the days when they had only walk-on roles?

FRIDAY, NOV. 2. 1956

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)-Getting finances on a more thrifty, economical basis will bring you that added feeling of abundance that you need at moment soon to arrive. Quietly organize all departments of your affairs more efficiently right now for best results.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)-Uniting your efforts with friends, companions, acquaintances, partners, even opponents makes this a wonderful day to arrive at real meeting of minds. Be sure you do cement deals made today with definite commitments.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)-Excellent day for you to take a good look at the work to be performed by you at office, home, with car or other travelling, communications, correspondence; health, diet, pets, garden, attire. Really get everything in shipshape CANCER (June 22 to July 21)-Bringing newcomers more closely into best phases of your living requires you entertain or have them in the lighter, happier side of your affairs for awhile, at least. Fine for thoroughly enjoying yourself tonight. Have fun. Be happy LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)-You can have your basic, fundamental affairs on a much better basis by getting financial matters on a more secure footing. Pay bills, look after accounts. Study insurance, social security, new pensions, allowance, investments, etc. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)-You can dig into reports, documents, data you need, contracts, accounts and all allied matters with kin, neighbors, partners, associates. Good also for study, sales, buying or maki purchases. Fine for visits, calls, exchanges, etc. Give LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)-Financial affairs should be the first concern today. Be sure you've paid bills, made collections and devised a budget that harmonizes with your supply and demands. Then you are in position to make repairs and increase your income.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)-Be as personal as you like today. Decide just what you want, and how you'd like to have it. Show others you have capabilities, and in the avenues through which they express themselves. Get all dolled up. P.M. go out. Have fun.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)-This is your day to ferret out, privately or with those you can the ways and means by which you can be more productive and happier. Decide what you want in harmony with intimates, experts. Be available for quiet

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)-Fine day for making new friends as well as enjoying proven com-rades. They will unite to aid you to obtain your hopes and wishes. So let them know what you do want. Then work vigorously to bring into your orb of expression.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Take a good look at how you are regarded by the general public and all who have any authority over your affairs. Be sure you do think out what you'd like your career to be in the future, or ways to advance your current vocation. Be PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Have you gotten those high-minded principles which attract you so deeply as a part of your daily thinking and for your continuous use? If not, this is an excellent day to think out the convictions, course under which you wish to operate.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN FRIDAY . . .

Friday's child is a highly resourceful and ingenious youngster who will never be satisfied with any super-ficial answer to any question that he or she asks. Therefore you'd be wise to early think out how to have the exact knowledge which your progeny will seek from you, and you'd best know it or it may be sought from less desirable places or persons. A fine chart for work requiring examining motives and behind the scenes manoeuvering, such as investigation, trust fund operations and allied interests.

With the collapse of the western alliance, the free world suffers the greatest disaster of this generation. The alliance was often strained, sometimes was often strained during the war and postwar years. But it held together, because it had to hold together, because it was to which party is more in the wrong—the U.S. or Britain and France. There is some reason to believe the U.S. has been to of kind in its initial reaction, that the Eisenhower administration has been too mindful of the presidential election next Tues day. THEY'RE two city children from an apartment, and they don't really know the country or its ways.

But they went out to a farm on a dreary Sunday afternoon when the rain was coming down as usual, and the October dusk was turning into dismal darkness. It was the sort of afternoon when this farmer's wife sometimes wishes she could cut her throat or quietly fade away. But, with the coming of the city children, the whole outlook changed.

To them, the rain was nothing. They weren't thinking in terms of muddy boots and soaking jackets, and gathering gloom and cows that must be milked.

To them, it was a high adventure, and a place full of unexpected lowed nest of hay. It meant mother cat cuddling up the kittens, and washing their faces so rou that they almost staggered on their legs.

It meant sitting up on the hay and watch ing rain-soaked dogs running wildly in the

It meant fighting off a leaping puppy, and being tumbled in the hay.

It meant boxes of apples piled in shadowy, dusty corner beyond the sacks of grain. It meant choosing an apple after great deliberation, and eating it after careful olishing on jacket sleeve and city slacks.

It meant traipsing down after the farmer's son, on hearing the unfamiliar clatter of milk

It meant a certain amount of giggling and fooling while naughty boys squirted milk at one aonther. (When Dad's away, the kids

It meant calves sucking greedily from other buckets with rubber teats attached. It meant a glorious spell of muddy freedom while dull grown-ups drank coffee at the kitchen table, and talked a lot of nonsense about education and politics and the Canadian character. And it always seems to me a little sad that, with our change over from a rural to an urban population, there are more and more Canadian children to whom the ways of farm life are totally unfamiliar. * * *

I know only too well the work and chores and rigid schedule that go with farming. But I'm stubborn enough to think that farm life is very good for children my mind, it makes them realize the importance of the land. (Even if they long to leave it!)

They can see for themselves the discip line that must be practiced by those who work upon the land. They can see that when hay or grain is ready to cut, it must be cut and social invitations cannot come ahead of work. If they do, then hay is spoiled. And, if there's no hay in the barn, then there won't be milk or meat in winter. (Anybody knows what hay costs a ton? Or how many tons a cow eats in the winter?)

For the farmer is producing FOOD, and food—as every housewife knows—is what makes the world go round.

* * * *
I sometimes wonder what would happen if the world's farmers, including those on this island, were to quit producing food.

When a rash comes a person should immediately stop taking all drugs to see if, with this, the skin clears up.

I remember a man who used to go into a terrible chill, run a high fever, and have severe pains in the bones of his legs. Several able doctors studied him careand couldn't guess the trouble was. When I saw him, my hunch was that it was a reaction due to the taking of some drug, but the man main-tained that he wasn't taking any medicine. When I was about stumped, I noted that, with some of his

He said, "Yes, they are due to taking phenolphthalein." For years, this has been the commonest laxative used in patent preparations. Then the man admitted that he had been taking some "laxative cookies" which, according to the label, did not contain any dangerous drugs. When he stopped taking the cookies that was the end of his eruption. I'll never forget the woman who, once a month at her menstrual time, would go into a tremendous chifl; her temperature would shoot up to 105 degrees, and for a while she would be miserable. For years no one had been able to find the cause. A little study showed that this was due to the taking of a certain often-toxic drug for her menstrual pain. During the flare-up due to the drug, the woman's white blood count dropped spectacularly which helped me greatly in making the diagnosis. When she stopped taking the medicine, that was the end of the the leg. When a man is quiet, enough blood gets through to supply the needs of the leg, but when he exercises, the leg needs much more blood—more than the artery can supply. Then comes the pain.

Unfortunately, medicine will not always relieve this condition. In some cases, the pa-tient can be helped by an operation called a sympathectomy, in which certain nerves are back of the upper part of the abdomen In the worst cases, an expert on artery dis eases, by injecting some radio-opaque material into the artery and x-raying it, can find just where the narrow place is. Then a surgeon where the narrow place is may cut out this place, and transplant a seg-ment of artery with a bore large enough to carry all the blood that is needed.

One of the worst things people do is to keep poison around the house, and another is eep it in an unmarked glass or cup. If I ever have to buy poison or lye for some purpose, I will not keep the unused remainder; I will throw it out. All parents of children should do this. But if they feel they must keep poisons around, at least they should keep them in a locked cabinet—not the one in the bathroom, but a separate one. Only safe medicinal drugs should be kept in the medicine cabinet. Why? If they had torn off the garage doors and deposited them in the blackberry patch of Mrs. next-door-neighbor but one, I would have said "hobgoblins will be hobgoblins."

If they had thrown a handful of cannon crackers down the chimney, I would have been only slightly annoyed.

What the hobgoblins did was far, far worse—so bad, in fact, I hesitate to tell you about it.

But I will, so don't go away.

As things worked out on Hanoween, it was impossible for My Favorite Wife and I to get home until about 9.30.

There was the matter of a reception for some minor CPR official or other—the president, or some such—which entailed the consumption of hot little pig sausages on tooth picks, washed down with sarsaparilla and leavened with conversation with such types as heads of universities and famous editors, and so on.

This was followed by dinner with some very charming friends sparkled by talk about people we knew 'way back when, and ending with one of the charming friends picking up the cheque.

After this, we watched the goon boys and the goon girls ing wholesome fun on Yates Street.

All very entertaining, you might say.
But throughout it all, something troubled me severely.
I had not yet read the afternoon paper.

While conversing with railway officials and university heads and famous editors and charming friends, a part of my mind was looking forward to getting home, taking off my shoes, and reading the paper. Or even reading the paper without taking off my shoes.

So, when finally we got home, I gave a cursory glance around the place, and found the hobgoblins had left the garbage pail and the woodpile and the garage doors intact.

And then I went to the little box where our carrier salesman leaves the paper, and I got the paper.

And do you know what the hobgoblins had done?

They had torn the paper vertically in half, along the line dividing column four from column five.

The hobgoblins in my neighborhood must know me tty well. At least, they knew how to ruin my evening. I hope YOUR hobgoblins were kinder.

Halloween Hoodlums Defied Frustrated Police Officers

The police commission stepped lightly.

One week ago the commission in a body told this reporter rowdyism and indiscriminate throwing of fireworks in the downtown area this Halloween "will be stepped upon."

Mayor, Percy Scurrah, a week earlier, said in interview the police/commission, of which he is chairman, had special plans for Halloween, which he couldn't divulge. Things were to be different. They were different. It was the first Halloween that dumped buckets of gasoline on View Street and ignited them It was the first time a policeman was hit with raw eggs or members of the Corps of Commissionaires threatened with raised fists when they said "Move along."

It was probably the most arrogant, defiant mob of hoodlums ever to roister through the downtown streets.

They set wastepaper bins on fire, of course. That happens every year. And bounced a car to the sidewalk.

And they threw their bombs as indiscriminately as ever, at cars, in doorways, in windows.

They roved in mobs which numbered close to 100 at times. And they roamed almost unmolested. All they had to do was keep moving.

Members of the police force were frustrated, "We can't hit them," said one egg-spattered constable. And obviously, despite the city's anti-fireworks regulation (no fireworks may be fired in the city without council permission), the police had been ordered not to ston them.

Was it because there was no jail big enough to hold them? Was it because there is another by-law which permits the sale of fireworks. Many of the policemen parking lot on View Street, alongside a parked car, and ignited it. It burned itself out without damage. Another bucket was dumped on the road where cars were passing. Police arrived before it could be lit.

But this didn't stop another group from lighting bombs to toss into the gas. Interrupted they professed no knowledge of the gas, but tendered the advice:

"If your nerves are bad, stay home.

Why were the hands of the police tied?

Victoria city council and police commission had the example of last year to look back on. Cars were bounced to the sidewalk then too, and the bomb menace just as severe.

They have balked at the obvious solution. Enforce the law. Or, adopt the solution most policemen favor—stop the manufacture and sale of fireworks.

When that is done there will be no excuse for the parade of juvenile thugs that marched around and around the business section Wednesday night, daring the police to touch them.

He estimated between 50,000 and 150,000 persons annually would visit the old castle at an admission of 75 cents if it were stitably restored and made acentre for display of antiques during tourist season.

He said other uses could be planned for the fall and winter.

USE PROFITS

He felt a new school board building could be provided by the city from the profits shown by the castle admissions.

The castle was built by Robert Dunsmuir, early-day coal barron, in the 1880s, to emulate a castle in Scotland. Dunsmuir died before he could live in his castle but it was lived in by his widow.

Angry, Confused Scene As Laborites Demand to Know If War Declared

LONDON (UP)—Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden's government today won a vote of confidence on his military moves against Egypt. The vote was 324 to 255, a majority of 69.

LONDON (AP)—The House of Commons suspended its sitting for 30 minutes today following an uproar from the Labor opposition on Britain's Middle East policy. An angry, confused scene developed after Labor members asked Speaker W. S. Morrison for a ruling on this question:

"Is the Eden government entitled to take military action against Egypt without a declaration of war?"

action against Egypt without a declaration of war?"

Labor Leader Hugh Gaitskell said "millions of British people are profoundly shocked and ashamed" that British aircraft are bombing Egypt.

Labor leaders, including Gaitskell and Aneurin Beyan, called on Prime Minister Eden to say if Britain has declared wars on Egypt, or not, or if she intends to do so.

Dulles flew from Washington to lead the American delegation at the assembly's first emergency session, summoned by the Secretity Council over the objections of Britain and France.
The special session, first since the beginning of the Korean War, was called Wednesday after two days of virtually fruitless debate in the veto-bound Security Council. The General Assembly originally had been scheduled to meet Nov. 12.

Britain would attend the special session of the full 76-member boody.

Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold informed the council that he could no longer remain neutral since the principles of the UN charter were involved.

And British delegate Sir Pierson Dixon gave a lengthy out-line of what lay behind the Anglo-French invasion of Egypt. (See page 3.)

Hammarskjold, reported angered by the Anglo-French action against Egypt, told the council in a carefully worded stream that the principles of the charter are far greater than the organization, and that he continued on Page 2
